

EN-PRO

INTERNATIONAL INC.

FAREWELL TO OUR FOUNDER AND CHAIRMAN,

LESLIE (LES) WALTER DROVER

October 31, 1940 – February 12, 2009

It is with profound sadness we say farewell to our founder and chairman, Leslie W. Drover. He was known as Les to his family, friends, and colleagues, and we will miss him.

As chairman of the board, Les kept a watchful eye over the operations of our company at all times. Being confident with senior staff and management, Les assigned the day-to-day activities and operations to his senior people while ensuring that the integrity and honesty of the company was never compromised.

Les was the consummate professional salesman and businessman. Beginning in Montreal, he quickly learned the secret to selling was to believe in what you were doing, and to serve your customers no matter what it took. He became so good at it that he was transferred to New York City where he learned the intricacies of the energy and commodities industry before returning to Toronto.

Les was a pioneer and a visionary, starting the only energy and commodities price consulting firm established by Canadians in 1985; it began as a two-man operation, with his former partner, Terry Slack, and grew to the substantial success it is today.

Les will be greatly missed by every one of us at En-Pro. He was a straight-shooter. A no-nonsense businessman with a fine sense of humour. During the past several months Les was instrumental in ensuring we maintain our vision and flexibility to deal with these changing times.

On behalf of everyone at En-Pro, we send our condolences to Les's beloved wife Sharyn, and to his entire family who he held dear to his heart.

We would like to assure our customers and associates that the family intends for En-Pro to continue on its present course with expansion and development in its plans at all times – never sacrificing our principles of service and objectivity.

Sincerely,

Edward Lukow, CEO, CFO
John Kiemele, Sr. Vice-President
